CURevl Announces Partnership with Higher Education Servicing Corporation and North Texas Higher Education Authority

Low-Cost Education Finance Options for Texans by Texans

Galveston, Texas, June 9th, 2021 — CU REVL LLC (CURevl), a Texas-based credit union service organization (CUSO), has partnered with non-profit sister companies Higher Education Servicing Corporation (HESC) and North Texas Higher Education Authority (NTHEA) to create an education finance program specifically for Texans. Our Texas credit union members now have access to a competitive in-school education loan program created for Texans by Texans.

“We are pleased to align with our long-time friends and colleagues at HESC and NTHEA to offer a private education loan program that is specifically designed to help students and families throughout Texas. Our credit unions and their members will most assuredly benefit from this highly unique and affordable product,” said Lance Teinert, CEO at CURevl.

“At NTHEA and HESC, we are excited to partner with CURevl. This combined effort will help us better connect with and serve more Texas credit unions and their members and further supports our mission of providing low-cost access to higher education for Texas students and families who may need help paying for college when scholarships and financial aid just aren’t enough,” said Phillip Wambsganss, Executive Director, NTHEA and HESC.
